Semicolons

By Lela Maron Finkbeiner

A semicolon is used to:

- To combine two simple (complete) sentences which are not joined by a conjunction (FANBOYS).
- To separate complete sentences that are joined by a conjunctive adverb (example however).
- To separate items in a list when commas alone would be confusing.

Directions: Rewrite each sentence inserting the semi-colon in the correct place.

- 1) I am hot I am wearing a sweater and a jacket.
- 2) The president was very popular he easily won the election.
- 3) I cannot buy a new car I do not have much money.
- 4) Zane likes fruit however, she does not like apples.
- 5) We love AI An it is the best city in the UAE.
- 6) I have all the things I need to prepare the pizza however, I don't have the time.

Education and management of EM services offer by units furnished by physicians and qualified licensed, non-physician practitioners. Billing. Respective to a patient visit requires the selection of the code that best represents the visit of the service performed. The purpose of this interactive worksheet is to assist providers with identifying the appropriate EM code based upon either the ICD-10 or ICD-9-CM classification system for diagnosis and procedure. January 1, 2021. © EM Codes and Guidelines Changes for 2021 effective for all practitioners.

Since the ICD-10 and ICD-9-CM guidelines of MACC CPT (EM Codes and Guidelines Changes for 2021) effective for all practitioners only for EM practitioners who are used to measure a specific patient visit. This interactive worksheet offers providers the ability to select either their preferred or all guidelines (ICD-10 or ICD-9-CM) to select best for the purposes of payment.

To emphasize the importance of medical necessity when reporting EM services consider the following: all EM services reported to Medicare must be supported by documentation to the medical necessity criteria required because Medicare was required that they are not to be reported. For the CMS Internal Civil Action (ICA) Medicare Claims Process Manual Part 1803.01, Chapter 12, Section 101.4. Medical necessity is a criterion for determining claims for payment by applying to the Medicare requirements for EM services. It is not to be used for medical necessity or appropriate to EM or other areas of evaluation and management services unless a clear level of medical necessity is established. The content of this document should be the primary reference upon which a specific level of medical necessity is determined.

Does the documentation for services listed include the date and specific description of the rendering provider? No Yes
